

"How We Can Love Everyone"

A sermon by Robintix

Opening:

"We all bleed red"

It is 2016 and I am 49!

And the race war still lingers on

It's just a matter of blood and time

Till they realize nobody has won

We cannot win you see

Until we can only see humanity

Look past creed class or race

And just see every human face

This war is no longer about race

Even if it ever was

It is about position and place

In the society pile of fuzz

It is all just fuzz

We are all in our own space

We will never stop fighting

Until we stop looking at race!

I don't see black or white or brown or red

All I see is humanity and we all bleed red

Good morning! My name I Robintix Perryman and I am a member of this congregation. Usually I am downstairs or at the park with the little ones so I don't get the chance to attend service very often.

And now here I am talking to you! Wow! First of all I love each and every one of you!

We all live on this big beautiful planet together but so few of us see it that way!

It is so easy you see. To love everyone you see!

I come from a meager background of mixed Christian religions which claim to teach love but most have undertones of hate(some more than others).

Those are stories for another day!

Years, trials, and errors go by and then I meet my wife from Japan and have a child while discovering Buddhism and later Shintoism. Like Native American religions Shintoism gives thanks for the Earth, Sky, and local spirits. I could tell you so many enlightening stories from my five trips to Japan. But recently the most inspiration has come from raising and working with children. It is here working with children and raising my own that I have discovered the secret to loving everybody! Something I am still working on. You might say that some people are hard to love, but the thing is they may be hard to like but it is easy to love everyone!

We don't have to like each other, to love each other.

"We Are Here To Love Not Hate"

Everything we hear, see, and do these days

Is designed to distract and create hate

When will we rise above this craziness

And take control of what we just call fate

Causes and conditions create our dilemma

And they all can be changed

Everyone we see is not the enemy

This way of thinking needs rearranged

Our mission is of love not one of hate

We are not here to conquer the earth or any living thing

Let us change what we just call fate

Let us stand together and sing

Namaste Music is the way!

As parents our children can do any wrong thing and they are still loved! Siblings can fight one minute and still have each other's backs in an instant. That is real pure love! If we all see each other as our own children and brothers and sisters then imagine what the world could be like!

Where I work part-time there is an elderly gentleman who although often acts like a spoiled child everyone loves him anyway. (Lasagna story) what would you do if your child did this?

"All Lives Matter"

It does not matter what you look like

I can love you

I can hate everything you do

I can love you

It does not matter what you sound like
I can listen to you
I may think that nothing you say is true
I can listen to you
It does not matter what you feel like
I can touch you
You can hate the way you feel and I can too
I can touch you
It does not matter how calm you are
I can fear you
You can be as distant as the northern star
I can be near you
Whether you are gloomy and sad or as bright as that star
I can shed a tear for you
You can be silent or as loud as you are
I can hear you
What I am trying to say is you can be completely sane or as mad as a Hatter
It matters not what or who you are because all lives matter

Right now I have friends and acquaintances who are going through custody battles because they forgot how to love each other. It breaks my heart to see what they put their children through without even realizing it! This is where we need to remember the most that we don't have to like each other to love each other. Otherwise we are teaching our children to hate. Is this what we want? Another generation of humans growing old and hating each other more and more without even knowing why? The only to combat hate is with love. The only way we should relate is with love
"Let us act with love and remove all hate"
Our children are not possessions to be passed back and forth or bickered about
Or locked away in some forgotten room while at each other we scream and shout
Why do we still preach love yet teach hate?
Why do we tear each other down instead of trying to relate?
The answer is not in the ring with boxing gloves
The answer has always been and should always be love
If there is no way you can come to a truce

Fighting over a child is a form of abuse
This child loves you both and is terribly confused
Being stuck in the middle and sometimes feeling used
Your child is not a tool with which to attack on another
Your child is the soul source of love for each other
So remember no matter how much you choose to hate
The one with which you chose to create
You are now teaching this creation to hate
Instead why don't we recreate
Some way in which we relate
And act with love removing hate
Let us act with love. And remove all hate

Look around. Each and every one in here is or was someones child. Or sister, or brother. Each and every one of you are or was loved by someone without judgement. We can all love each other simply for being human. We can step out of the boundaries of them and us and become the we that we are all designed to be! Now I would like everyone to stand and give the person next to you a hug and tell them you love them. Ok that was easy we all mostly know each other here the next one may be a bit of a challenge for some of you. I would like each and every one of you to hug a stranger today and tell them you love them. Let's teach our kids how to love and build a new generation of love. And put an end to hate

I love you all! Namaste Music is the way and love is the path!

"Without Love We All Just Die Inside"

Well we all need someone
Just to love us for who we are
Yeah we all need someone
Just to tell us we're someone's star
Well we all need someone
Just to hug us just because
Yeah we all need someone
Just to know we are being loved

(Chorus)

Cause if we do not have love

We all just die inside
If we all had love
We all would have nothing to hide
If we do not feel love
And let go of all of our pride
If it is not real love
We all just die inside

Well we all need someone
Just to tell us it's gonna be alright
Yeah we all need someone
Just to hold us in the dark cold lonely night
Well we all need to feel something
Just to remind us we are still alive
Yeah we all need to heal sometimes
It is just the human in us
We all need love to survive

(Chorus)

Cause if we do not have love
We all just die inside
If we all had love
We all would have nothing to hide
If we do not feel love
And let go of all of our pride
If it is not real love
We all just die inside

Well if you all need someone
Just to love for who you really are
Oh yeah I love everyone
Like the sisters and brothers we are all shining stars
Well we all need to love
everyone everywhere
Cause without so much love
There is nothing left but war

(Chorus)

Cause if we do not have love

We all just die inside
If we all had love
We all would have nothing to hide
If we do not feel love
And let go of all of our pride
If it is not real love
We all just die inside

Closing:

"I don't want to be a human today"
I don't want to be a human today
I would rather be a bear
I don't want to wear cloths
Or have to cut my hair
I don't want to be a human today
I would rather be a bird
I just want to sing all day
And never have to speak a word
I don't want to be a human today
I would rather be the river
I just want to flow like water
And never have to shiver
I don't want to be a human today
I would rather be a dove
I just want to fly away
And never have to feel love
I don't want to be a human today
I would rather be the sky
So I could watch over you all
And never have to cry!
